WHO'S WHO IN THE REVIEW

GEORGE PRESTON MAINS, D.D., LL.D., pastor, presiding elder, and for twenty years one of the publishing agents of The Methodist Book Concern, is now retired. He is author of many important books, such as Modern Thought and Traditional Faith. The Who's Who information concerning the contributors of briefer tributes to Doctor Kelley is placed at the end of each of their articles.

SIR WILLIAM MITCHELL RAMSAY, D.C.L., an outstanding authority on early Christian literature and the archæology of Asia Minor, has written many valuable treatises on these and related problems, such as The Church in the Roman Empire, Saint Paul, the Traveler, and Was Christ Born at Bethlehem? The latter is one of the strongest arguments ever made for the credibility of the writings of Saint Luke. His article in this issue renders the same service to the nativity narrations in Matthew.

Professor EMIL CARL WILM, Ph.D., a professor of philosophy in Boston University is well known to our readers. OSCAR MACMILLAN BUCK, M.A., professor of missions in Drew Theological Seminary, is a son of Philo M. Buck, D.D., that noted Methodist missionary in India for many years. Doctor LYNN HAROLD HOUGH, pastor of Central Methodist Church, Detroit, Mich., needs no introduction; he is widely known both in America and England.

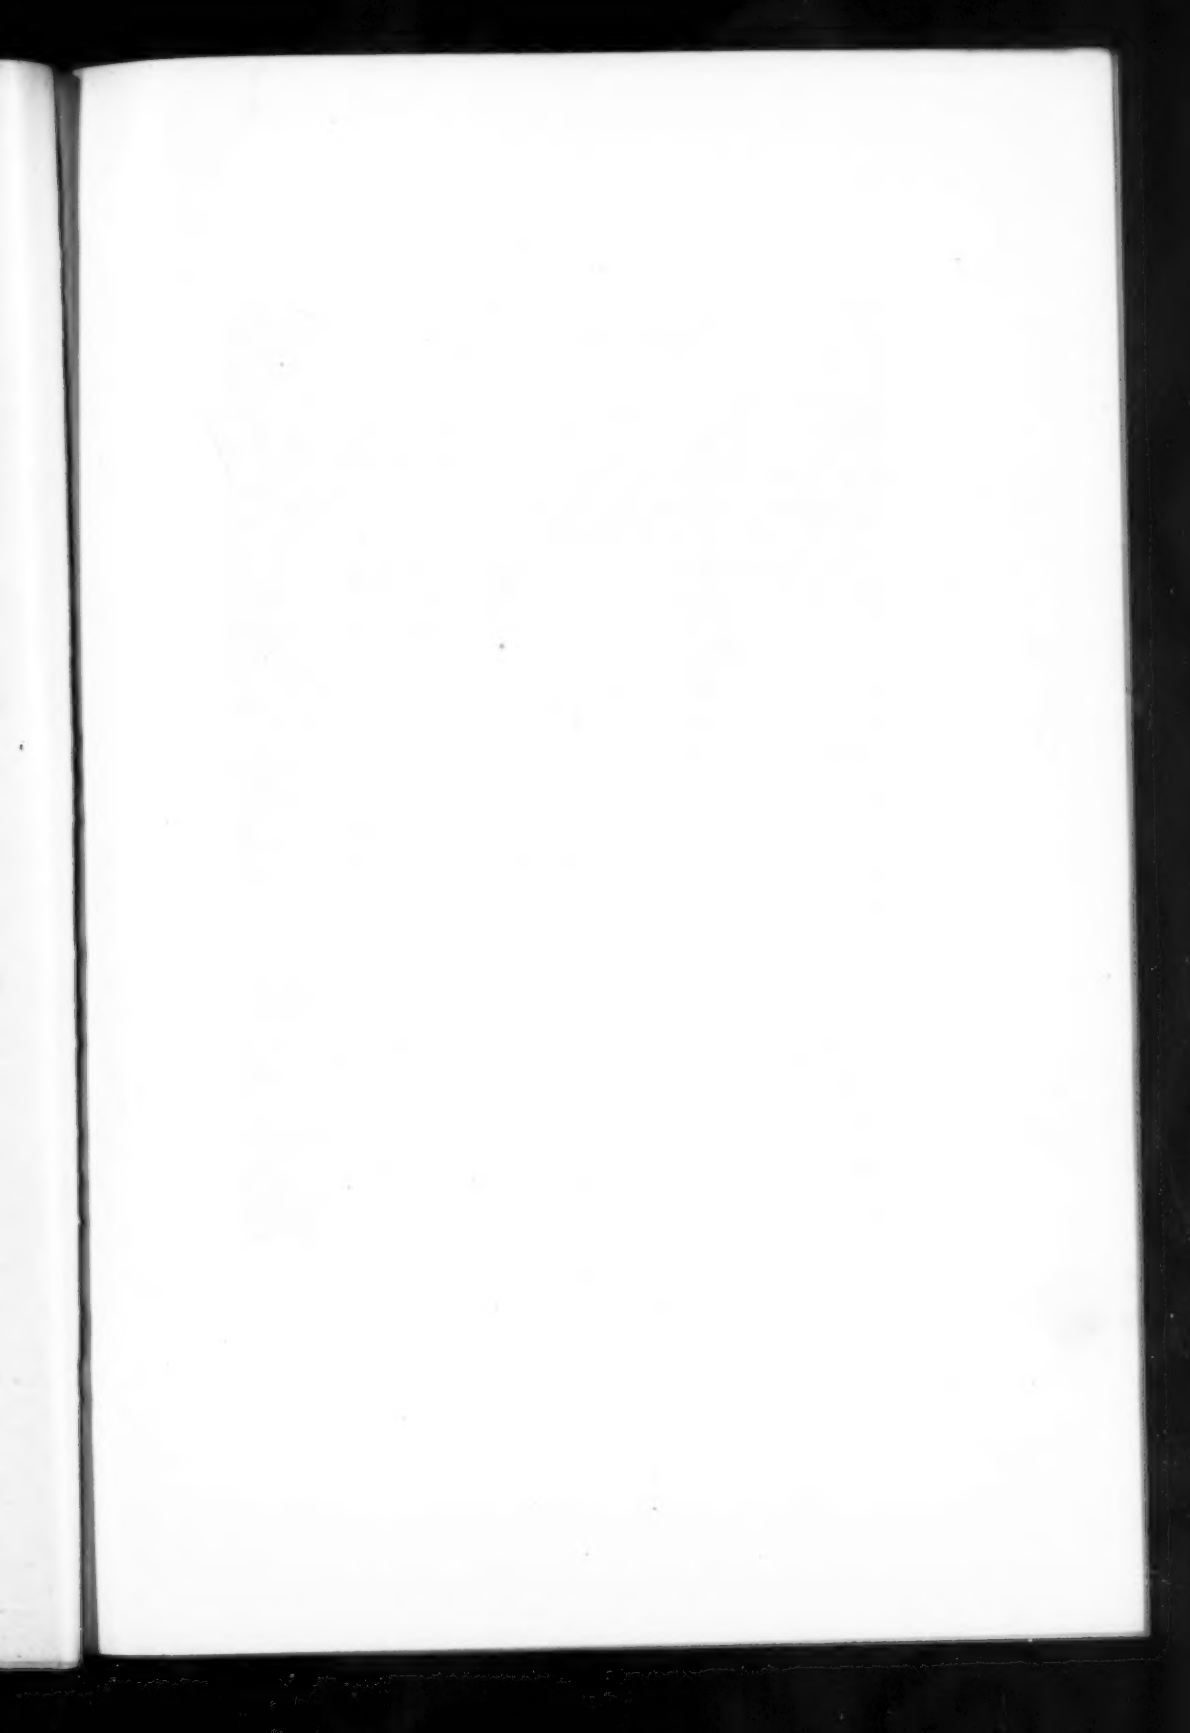

SAMUEL GEORGE SMITH, D.D., LL.D., who died several years ago, was professor of sociology in the University of Minnesota; he was a college classmate and close personal friend of the present Editor of the METHODIST REVIEW.

Doctor SAMUEL L. STEWART is a District Superintendent of the Mansfield District, North-East Ohio Conference.

HENRY KING CARROLL, LL.D., distinguished lay leader in Methodism, is one of the greatest American experts in religious statistics. A valuable recent book from his pen is Francis Asbury in the Making of American Methodism. He must also be given supreme credit for promoting the sculpture and erection of that beautiful equestrian statue of Asbury in Washington, D. C.

The Reverend WILLIAM WILBERFORCE COSTIN is pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Ellerslie, Md. This REVIEW owes much to him in increasing its circulation.

Professor HOMER E. WARR, Ph.D., has charge of the department of missionary instruction in the School of Theology of Boston University.

William V. Kelley.
